

A Quick Guide to Farmscape Ecology Program Info. on Columbia County Biodiversity.

The latest plant list is May 2014, here's a link to our web page from which it can be downloaded.

For Butterflies, we have this list.

For Moths, there is this photographic guide.

For Damselfly- and Dragonflies, there is this one.

For Ground Beetles, there is this list.

For Ants, there is this.

And for Bees, this.

Our fish page has an illustrated guide to some (and only some) of our stream fish.

Our herps page has photos of many but not all of our amphibians and reptiles.

Our mammals page is an incomplete historical overview of our larger mammals. We've also done some bat and small mammal work but that doesn't show up there.

The birds we leave to the bird folks, they've published a nice list through the Columbia County tourism board.
